ABSTRACT

The 15th volume of the "Collective Bargaining in Higher Education and the Professions" bibliography is intended to continue as a major research tool for those involved in either the study of or the practice of collective bargaining in higher education. It, along with the other volumes, documents the historical development and growth of collective bargaining in higher eduction. This particular volume, unlike the others, does not contain a listing of court cases and administrative orders (because the volume of reported cases has grown to a proportion that referencing them is best left to the courts and legal reporting services). Five sections include the following: (1) faculty bibliography (e.g. academic freedom, collective bargaining, comparable worth, due process, financial exigency, fringe benefits, merit pay, non-faculty, retirement, retrenchment, salaries, strikes, tenure, and women faculty); (2) professions and professionals bibliography (health care administration and institutions, health care professions, nurses, professions, and professions-sports); (3) information guides (bibliographies and directories, resources and periodicals, and useful sources of information); (4) indices (author and subject) and (5) acronyms and abbreviations. INTRODUCTION

The bibliography of the National Center, Collective Bargaining in Higher Education and the Professions, continues to be a major research tool for those involved in either the study of or the practice of collective bargaining in higher education. The Bibliography stands as a "statement for the record" and when viewed as a part of the complete series, volumes 1-15, documents the historical development and growth of collective bargaining in higher education. The compilation of citations includes not only faculty labor relations issues, but also delves into all facets of the higher education employment relationship.

The National Center staff compiles citations through a combination of manual research and computerized data searches. Although the technology of computerized information retrieval has substantially advanced in recent years, there is still a need to adopt a "hands on approach" in the preparation of this project. There are still certain fugitive documents that are not yet inputted into computerized data bases, as well as a time lag inherent in the process, that requires the researchers to physically pour through thousands of documents in order to complete this project.

This volume, unlike previous ones, does not contain a listing of court cases and administrative orders. This is not to suggest a diminution in litigation in higher education, but to the contrary, the volume of reported cases has grown to a proportion that referencing them is best left to the courts and legal reporting services. Unlike the earlier years of collective bargaining in higher education when the case law involved primarily labor relations matters that were well within our scope, the more recent litigation involves, among other areas, class action suits involving employment discrimination issues which are far too complex to manually track.

The National Center is a neutral, impartial research organization serving as a clearinghouse and forum for those engaged in collective bargaining in higher education and the professions. This book is an integral part of our publication schedule which also includes the annual Directory, Proceedings of the Annual Conference, newsletters, and selected monographs.

Mary Donovan, a research librarian on the faculty at Baruch College and Beth Hillman Johnson, the Administrative Coordinator of the Center were the two researchers who prepared this Bibliography. The inputting and production was done by Ruby Hill, the Center's Administrative Assistant. The work product stands as a measure of their quality and success.

While we believe that this publication is accurate with respect to citations, titles and other bibliographic information, we apologize for any errors or omissions which might have occurred. As always, we welcome feedback from you, the reader, and are grateful for your comments. Once again, as we have said on so many occasions, this Bibliography is a team project. To those who have taken part in contributing to its success, I deeply appreciate your efforts.
